AMERICAN INTERESTS AT STAKE.

What possible interest the president of the United States has in a deposed queen who has been deposed to make way for a republic is past our comprehension. President Cleveland has sympathized with Queen Lil. ever since her disreputable government was overthrown and has turned a cold shoulder to the new Hawaiian government. Now he comes out in a special message to congress urging that the United States government consent to the request of the Hawaiian government that Necker island be leased to England for a cable station. Unfortunately for the president's desires a new man has arrived upon the scene right from the Hawaiian Islands. This is Francis M. Hatch, the Hawaiian minister of foreign affairs, and one of the strongest friends of annexation on the islands. Mr. Hatch is on his way to Washington and stopped in San Francisco long enough to say that Hawaii does not want an English cable and will accept it only as a last resort. Mr. Hatch has come just in time to prevent congress from throwing awaya chance to strengthen American interests in the Pacific by giving valuable rights to England. A cable ought to be built to Honolulu and it ought to be built by American capital and controlled by Americans. We want the Nicaraugua canal and the cable to the Hawaiian Islands.

St. Johnsbury people will recall that Mr. Hatch is the son-in-law of Col. Alex. G. Hawes of San Francisco, who is a native of this town. He is one of the most patriotic Americans in Honolulu and we hope he will succeed in his present mission to the United States.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES. While the reaction from the recent financial depression must necessarily be slow it will be sure nevertheless and financiers seem inclined to the belief that the signs are pointing to better times ahead. A notable impetus has been given to the cotton cloth industry by the proposed plan of several of the big mills at Lowell and Manchester to increase their capital stock and build branchestablishments in the South. These will manulacture the coarser grades of cotton cloth and sheetings. Good news comes from Pennsylvania that the Bethlehem Iron Co. have secured a four million dollar contract from the Russian government to make armor plates for their new ironclads. The contract was secured in competition with all the leading firms of Europe and opened the eyes of foreigners who had never thought the United States could compete with them in this line of business. These are only two instances of increased prosperity that point to the coming of better times.

NEWS FROM A STRANGE SOURCE.

"The public is keeping its eye upon Major Grout of Derby, a long recognized gubernatorial possibility," says a correspondent in the Boston Globe. This enterprising newspaper is generally considered to be an authority upon democratic news, but when it predicts what the republicans of Vermont will do we are inclined to take its news "with a grain of salt." It the gentleman really has the eyes of by gas in a room at New York. Vermont republicans focused upon him, he should call off the Globe. Their support in a campaign would be fatal.

THE COMING OF GEN. GORDON.

A chivalrous soldier, a courtly gentleman, a superb orator, Gen. John B. Gordon appeared to us, charmed us for an evening, and hastened back to the nation's capital.

Superior to the delightful attractiveness of the man, and the magnificent bursts of his eloquence, are his highly conceived planes of duty. which all lovers of this republic, thirty years from the great war, may well think about and decide upon. Ever since the angry roar of those terrible guns was silenced at Appomatox he has sought a benignant mission.

Whenever his opportunity has been given him, he has failed not to invoke the influence of high standards in all the relations of the people. In place of estrangements and rancor he has invited a more exact analysis, and a milder interpretation upon some fundamental convictions, underlying the affairs of his own southland. Indeed no man has better earned the right to speak for his people.

Born in Georgia in 1832, schooled in law, he in 1861 entered the Confederate army as captain of infantry, and rose on his merits through the intervening grades to the highest place in the gift and esteem of his chief,

He fought bravely and with astonishing persistence to the end, and was eight times wounded in the line of his duty as he then conceived it. He appeal to arms, and sturdily set himcan citizen. And that work commends itself to many, very many he has there, with impassioned zeal, maintained that the integrity of this standing of signals on the part of an Union shall nevermore be assailed that law and order shall at all bazards prevail. He has resolutely determined that kindlier relations and a better understanding, are the only possible for an hour each Sunday.-Post office deoutcome, between the sections, in the decision of grave and vexing ques tions that constantly arise in the midst of this brave and generous American people.

So long as his sentiments persist on these lines, it is not rash or inappropriate to say that Gen. Gordon will be accorded, as we may hope, many sympathetic audiences throughout this broad republic.

PROMINENT PERSONALS.

Wallace Bruce, the poet and exconsul of the United States at Glasgow, whose brilliant lecture before a St. Johnsbury audience last winter is pleasantly recalled, is now devoting his time to the preservation of Thomas the Rhymer's tower near Edinburg. This tower is the most ancient bit of architecture extant relating to Scottish song and story, and Mr. Bruce has all but $300 raised necessary to buy the tower from the present owner of the land. The balance he will raise in America so as to connect our country with the enter-

There is not a medicine in use today which possesses the confidence of the public to so great an extent as Johnson's Anodyns Liniment. For more than 80 years it has stood upon its own intrinsic merit, while generation after generation have used it and transmitted the knowledge of its excellence to their children as a valuable inheritance. The best evidence of its value is the fact that in the state where it originated the sale of it is steadily nereasing.

1. S. Johnson, Esq. My Dear Sir:—Fifty years ago this mouth your father, Dr. Johnson, called at my store and left me some Johnson's Anodyne Liniment on sale. I have sold it ever since. I can most truly say that it has maintained its high standard and popularity from that time to this.
